

Carol Connolly

Senior Design & Delivery Faculty
Center for Creative Leadership

Experience

Prior to joining CCL, Carol was the Founder and President of an executive coaching and consulting practice serving clients' talent and leadership development needs, both individuals and teams. She also worked as an Executive Coach and Senior Consultant with other management and consulting groups, assisting clients (for profit and government agencies) in achieving specific business outcomes. Initiatives included developing managers' leadership, coaching, sales, sales management, negotiation, and risk management skills. An eleven year veteran of Wachovia, she served multinational corporations and financial institutions headquartered outside the US in both business development and risk management capacities. She also worked for Citibank's investor relations operating group as a team leader and summer intern.

Current Role

A member of Center for Creative Leadership's (CCL®) Design and Delivery Faculty, Carol works with CCL's clients to design, develop and deliver customized programs that address unique and complex business and leadership challenges. Carol combines her strong business acumen and industry experience with 20 years of experience as an organizational consultant, executive coach, and trainer to offer clients solutions that are integrated with the business strategy and apply the depth and breadth of CCL's resources and portfolio. Carol also delivers targeted Open Enrollment programs for CCL and has experience working with clients in pharmaceutical, telecommunications, medical devices, medical technology, personal care, financial, legal and higher education professions.

Educational Background

Carol has a MBA from A. B. Freeman School of Business at Tulane University, funded by Citibank; and earned her BA at Connecticut College with majors in Anthropology and French. In 2006, Robert Fritz certified her as a Structural Consultant (using a systems approach to executive coaching and organizational development). She is certified in CCL's 360 suite of assessments, Reina Trust Leadership Scale®, WorkPlace BigFive ProFile™, Conflict Dynamics Profile®, Influence Behavior Questionnaire, and 4MAT Master Training Design.

Professional Affiliations

Dedicated to a holistic approach to developing the full potential of executives and managers, Carol strives to integrate into CCL's offerings current findings in brain research as well as time tested practices from ancient wisdom traditions. She is a member of the NeuroLeadership Institute and a Oneness Trainer certified by Oneness University.
